Dear Mr. Berle:

Apropos of our discussion this afternoon concerning the proposed [redacted] in the handling of [redacted] of the work in the [redacted] I am transmitting herewith a copy of the directive dated January 28, 1941 which was drawn by subordinates of the three agencies for the purpose of establishing a clarification of this issue. This is the directive which General Miles declined to sign because of his unwillingness to curtail the operations of the Military Intelligence Division in any manner. The Navy Department indicated complete satisfaction with this proposed agreement and it was of course entirely satisfactory to me.

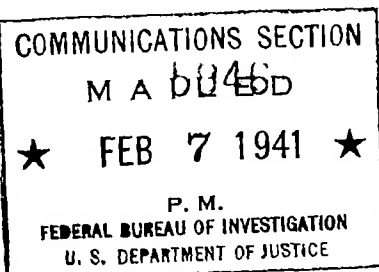

I shall be pleased to hear further from you about this situation as soon as you have had a chance to go into it.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE DIRECTOR

judicial L. 100

For record purposes it may be noted that on February 12th Colonel Lester of the Military Intelligence Division furnished me the attached copy of a directive addressed to Major Sharp under date of November 2, 1940 by General Miles. This is the directive which the Bureau has had previously and which was directed to Major Sharp. Colonel Lester stated the letter was not contained in the regular files of the War Department but was in a special place designated by General Miles for which reason he had previously advised no such letter was on record.

Also attached hereto is a memorandum dated February 13, 1941 which constitutes General Miles' revision of the first draft drawn. Your attention is particularly invited to the fact that paragraph II of the War Department draft provides that the task of gathering information is that of the FBI for all "civilian" agencies. This would of course be a further restriction on the Bureau. Your attention is further invited to the rewording in the War Department draft in paragraph IV which has studiously avoided any check through the pool to determine whether the FBI has or can get the information desired in special requests.

President in 1941

I exhibited to Mr. Adolf A. Berle, Jr., of the State Department a copy of the revision of the proposed outline of coverage in the [REDACTED] field dated February 24, 1941. I told him that you wanted to submit this memorandum to him informally in order that he might know what was going on and also so that we might have the benefit of any suggestions or criticisms which he had of the memorandum, and at the same time we wanted to know if it met with his approval.

b7E

Mr. Berle stated that the memorandum followed the agreement which was reached in his office some time ago at the time you, General Miles, and Captain James were present. He wanted to suggest only one change in order for the memorandum to be exactly the same as the original agreement reached at the time mentioned. Mr. Berle suggested the insertion of the following sentences:

Brigadier General Sherman Miles
Assistant Chief of Staff
G-2, War Department
Washington, D.C.

Dear General Miles:

I note that your letter of March 7, 1941, indicates that the Office of the Assistant Secretary of War has informed you that it is preparing a new directive to be issued to a procurement agencies, which has for its purpose the elimination of unnecessary duplication of effort between those procurement agencies and the Federal Bureau of Investigation. You have also pointed out that there are certain responsibilities which have been placed upon the procurement agencies which it is not considered practicable to delegate to any other agency, and in this connection the duties of the Production Branch of the Office of the Assistant Secretary of War have been enumerated in part.

The new directive has not as yet been furnished to this Bureau and I believe that it would be of assistance to have a copy of this directive available for reference purposes.

In examining the portion of the duties of the Production Branch of the Office of the Assistant Secretary of War, as outlined in your letter of March 7, 1941, it would appear that the contents thereof do not specifically refer to the method of reporting the incidents pertaining to [REDACTED]

In the interest of avoiding any duplication of activity, it is hoped that the new directive will clarify the functions of the various interested agencies and reduce to a minimum duplications which have existed in the past because of overlapping delegation of responsibilities.

Sincerely yours,

J. Edgar Hoover

Dear Sir:

Various minor matters were taken up of purely routine nature which merely enabled all of us to facilitate our work, but several matters of major importance were brought up which I think must be given immediate consideration by the Bureau relative to the future relationships of ONI and this office.

I want to again call the Bureau's attention to the fact that there is such a doubt, and that there is a definite lack of agreement on the part of ONI and ourselves as to what investigative interest and coverage interest is.

RECORDED & INDEXED

I don't think there is any question about G-2 understanding what coverage interest is. They were in accord with our making available to them the summary type of reports on general situations which they claim would suffice for their needs as far as coverage knowledge and interest.

The Bureau has noted the information concerning Captain McCullough's objection to requesting police departments to conduct investigations in [redacted] Inasmuch as your letter dated March 25, 1941, regarding the interview had by Special Agent L. A. Schon with [redacted] indicates that Captain McCullough now understands the Bureau's position in this matter, it does not appear necessary for the Bureau to take any action on the information furnished in your letter of March 27, 1941.

The Bureau is of the definite opinion that the difficulties which you are experiencing with the Office of Naval Intelligence in San Francisco can be removed by frank discussions between yourself and Captain McCullough, and desires that you make every effort to amicably adjust these differences at future conferences.
